-ness and injustice show that, amid th general inscusibility to shame, there are some few Chinamen in office who are not destitute of a sense of right. MU-T'U-SHAN, Acting Military Governor of Kirin, in a recent memorial to the Imperial Government, reports that, after taking office in his new post, he reviewed the military force under his command, when he found the soldiery living within the city and doing duty at his yamen smartly dressed and well shod, but for the anatomical preparation when she dies. most part knowing very little about archery or borsemanship. The soldiery and officers, on the contrary, who live in the country villages, presented a ragged and forlorn appearance, but seemed to be stout and honest fellows, although their state of poverty was something pitiable. Enquiry led him to discover that the duties connected with the collection of customs' duties and the guards at the several military posts, were habitually entrusted to the military of the city alone, who took turn and turn about, the knowing bim well enough ale refused. MARCHING.	C
Comparing the principal armies of Europe,
we find the German with a strike of 314 in.	C and a oudence of 112 per minute; the Austuan	`
with one of 293 in , and a cadence of 115 to	٦
120; the Italian with one of 295 in, and a cadence of 120; and the English with a page of 30 in, and a cadence of 110 per minute.	E
. Hence the German infantry, would gain 48 in.	- every minute on the British, or at the rate of	ŀ
240 ft. per hour. In like manuer the Austrain	ន
and Italian gain 69 in, every minute, or at the	~

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong, LAOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objests in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are the best principle hitherto attained. The typomake the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have ieretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration, Julianers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Fire to the extent of $40,000, on Buildings or and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains; more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charge. ters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yot published, the etudent of this difficult language absolutely re. upon insurances effected with this Company. quires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub. For practical purposes the arrangement of stands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chi nesc. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. . It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

THAT NEW WORLD. . RI ERS. S. M. B. PIATT. How gracious we are to grant to the dead Those wide, vague lands in the foreign sky, Reserving the world for curselves instead; . For we must live, though others must dis!

And what is the world that we keep, I pray? True, it has glimpses of down and flowers; Then youth and love are here and away. Like mated birds-but nothing is ours.

Ah, nothing indeed, but we cling to it all, It is nothing to hear one's own heart beat, It is nothing to see one's born tears fall. Yot surely the breath of our life is sweet. Yes, the breath of our life is so sweet, I fear We were loath to give it for all we know.

Of that charmed country we hold so dear, Far into whose beauty the breathless go. Yet certain we are, when we see them fade Out of the pleasant light of the sun, Of the sun a of gold in the pulm leaf's shade,

And the strange, high jewels all these have won.

And yet, if these vacant eyes could see." One, only one, from that voyage divine. With something, anything, sure for me! Ah, blow me the scent of one lily; to tell That it grew outside of the world, at most;

Ah, show me a plume to touch, or a shell

That whispers of some prearthly coast i

You dare not doubt it, O soul of mine!
